Alien Lords Captive Warriors Of The Lathar Book 1

Warriors of the Lathar

Being rescued by aliens doesn't mean she's going to marry one... not unless he's hot. Asking would help too. The problem is the only alien warrior Gracie is interested in hasn't asked. Seren K'Vass is the epitome of the strong, silent type. Emotionally avoidant with a bad boy vibe, if he was human, she'd climb him like a tree. Hell, she'd climb him like a tree anyway. But the lathar don't do casual... anything. Then a warrior from another clan tries to claim her and all bets are off. Whisking her away to his homeworld, she discovers Mr. Doesn't Talk about Feelings has been keeping secrets. Ones that might get them all killed... She's his, but with tainted blood, how can he claim her? From a family the lathar would rather forget, Seren long ago resigned himself to being the last of his line. But fate has other ideas, putting a beautiful human female in his path. Gracie is everything he never knew he wanted in a mate. But how can he ask her to take on a mate with cursed blood? When a B'Kaar warrior tries to claim what's his, long-suppressed instincts flare to life. He'll take Gracie home, keep her safe and persuade her that he's the only male she'll ever need. But fate, and an ancient and malfunctioning orbital weapon, never makes things easy. They must face their inner demons and find a path to each other... or die in the attempt. She's a nurse, not a spaceship pilot. And why are aliens so damned hot? Nurse Jac's life is boring. It certainly doesn't include aliens, unless they're on TV. But then the shit hits the fan and she finds herself on an alien ship with her charge frozen into a giant blue ice cube. What's a girl to do? Kiss the hot alien, then knock him out of course. The problem is, she can't drive a car, never mind fly an alien spaceship. Which is a problem when hostile aliens board the ship... Go to earth. Find a woman. Bring her back. Simple. Rynn is an assassin. Normally. Now it seems he's a delivery boy. Sent to earth to retrieve a sick female, he's anticipating an easy trip. If he spends a little time getting to know the local culture... well, that's just a perk of the job. Right? Human females are fascinating, especially Jac, the sick female's nurse. He'd thought the warriors who'd fallen for humans had defective genes. But Jac is something else. Tiny. Delicate. Beautiful. HIS. When an attack puts them in danger, he escapes earth with not one, but two human females in his care. What could possibly go wrong? Apparently... everything.

Kemsit

She must betray his trust to achieve her mission. But fooling an alien warrior comes with a price. A guest of the Lathar, Jane hasn’t forgotten she’s a hard as nails marine. Tasked with finding a way to beat the technologically-advanced aliens, she needs to find answers for her superiors before they arm the nukes and doom the human race. Just one problem. A scarily-sexy alpha male alien warrior with long hair and a sexy growl. He wants her for his mate and time is running out. Both to get the intel she needs, and to stay out of his bed. Because once he gets her there, she knows she’ll never want to leave. A beautiful stowaway is the last thing he needs, but everything he’s ever wanted. Karryl has wanted Jane from the moment he saw her. The human soldier is feisty and dangerous, everything he wants in a female. He knows she desires him, but she resists his claim. Called away on a mission into a dangerous part of space, an unexpected stowaway puts a crimp in his plans. Ego says she followed him, sense says she’s a spy. He’ll finish his mission and get her back to the safety of Lathar Prime. He’ll make her body burn in his bed, get the truth out of her…and claim her as his mate. But no plan survives contact with the enemy. They must contend with a crash landing, a case of amnesia, and an enemy who think it would be better if Karryl took a long walk out of a short airlock…

Three Ways to be Alien

She’s pregnant without nookie. Someone lied to her about the birds and the bees. Being kidnapped by aliens isn’t so bad, especially as it allows Jess to be close to a certain handsome healer. When Laarn is called away to the battlefield, she gets treatment from the automated systems in his lab. Button-mashing alien tech? Not a good idea. Now she’s pregnant without a sniff of between the sheets action. What’s worse, there’s a bunch of fanatics loose in the palace trying to kill her and her baby…Duty or desire. He can’t have both Laarn’s scars mark his rank as the best healer in the empire, but Jessica, the beautiful human female who holds his interest, won’t even look at him. He wants her, but his duty lies in saving his people. Until everything changes. A lost strand of DNA in the human code, hidden in Jess’s genetic material, could mean a cure. Cat Star Chronicles Bundle

Being captured by aliens is better than being sent home… Pilot Randy Rivers always has had a sassy mouth. This time though, it’s not her mouth but her temper that lands her in trouble and given her marching orders home. That and apparently slamming a superior officer’s face into a table is a no no. One who’s determined to prove that enemies can make the best lovers... Sometimes love can be found in the most unexpected of places... like under a seating rack. They did though, and were easily captured. But, the numbers don’t add up, and Riis realizes that they’re missing one human. A female hiding in the tiniest of spaces, easily missed with how tiny human women are. A female who takes his breath away with her beauty and makes him smile with her stubbornness and intelligence. Just a few days. At least, that’s what he tells himself. If he can keep her secret for long enough to get himself some mating marks and bond her to him, then they’ll never be able to take her away from him. But jealous eyes are always watching and a warship is no place for keeping secrets. Especially where rare and coveted females are concerned. When Randy is discovered, Riis must fight for his life and a chance at a life with his little mate. Because mating marks don’t do a warrior any good if he’s dead...
